"His duties have lain in the field of administration, and in carrying them out he has ever displayed courtesy, good judgment and impartiality. During his long service he has shared largely in the shaping of our mining laws, and in making the changes in them that events and circumstances from time to time indicated were advisable. Gifted with a retentive memory, he has accumulated a store of information regarding these laws and the best method of putting them into effect. His one thought has been to serve the province to the best of his ability." —Hon. Charles McCrea.

Soc. Can., 1934; Address Simcoe, Ontario.

"A dynamic personality. He displays in every expression and gesture a fervency, a distinctiveness, an aloofness which at once places him as a man of mark."—A. A. Perry.

"Mr. Grove is the civilized sort of author who suggests rather than asserts—indicates rather than concludes."—J. Chamberlain.

"Groves grave effort to realize and express the common life in firmly wrought tales is without precedent."—W. A. Deacon.

"A vigorous figure of protest."—Canadn. Bookman.

"Groves 'Settlers of the Marsh' and 'A Search for America' show life clearly but not entire. 'The Yoke of Life' is a pale enough copy of 'Jude the Obscure', a tragedy of the unfulfilled artist in man; 'Our Daily Bread' is as unreal as 'Sussex Gorse' is convincing and beautiful. The note is one of cynical despair; the voice is that of a prophet but the prophecy is wanting."—Lorne Pierce.

When the writer failed in his task, the illustrator, to prevent waste of his drawings, wrote his own story to go with them. The immediate result was 'Splrit Lake', 1907, so popular that it was translated into French and ran as a serial in the leading Paris Monthly Je Sais Tout. Also it was published in The Windsor Magazine of London and The Metropolitan magazine of New York. Seven times in four countries were the serial rights sold. But the full results are not yet garnered. For Canada gained more than the author. She won a competent, painstaking, graphic pen to set down for all time the colour, romance and beauty of Canadian wild life." ; el. mem., Soc. of Authors, Playwrights and Composers, London, and, The Authors' League of Am. ; "As an artist Heming's activity covers a period of 43 years, but as a painter, in the accepted sense of the term, he has still to complete his first lustrum," says Walter J. Phillips, R.C.A., in the Winnipeg Tribune, "yet now he is hailed by European critics as a great painter." ; began painting in colour at the age of 60 in 1930 ; in 1925 Doubleday, Page & Co. of New York and S. B. Gundy of Toronto, publ. "The Living Forest", a woodland tale ; his books have won the applause of the wilderness people, here are two examples ; ex-chief trader King of the Hudson's Bay Co., who is now 90 yrs. old and has traded from Hudson Bay to the Pac. and from Old Man River to the Arctic Ocean ; "Though I read 'The Drama of the Forests' critically, I could find nothing that should be changed. His work is the real thing. I know—because I have lived the life." ; the late Chief Tekahionwake, leader of the Mohawk Band of the Six Nations Indians : "Heming is the keenest of students of Indian life and of which he has become master. We consider his entertaining and instructive work unequalled." ; assoc., Roy. Candn. Acad. ; mem., Ont. Soc. of Artists ; his portrait painted in oils by Richard Jack, R.A. ; Club Arts and Letters ; Address 57 Bloor St. W., Toronto, Ont.

"Unlike the average traveller he has left and is still leaving a record behind him ; yes, and more than a record—a heritage for the nation."—Assistant Commissioner LaNauze, R.C.M.P.

"His individual and original illustrations are the work of a real artist and can scarcely be over-praised."—Manchester Guardian.

"Heming's exhibition, which was noted in The Connoisseur recently, proved such a marked success that practically every canvas was sold when we last visited it. The success of this show caused editors in England, Germany, Italy, Sweden, and the United States to telegraph for permission to reproduce the paintings. And The Art Digest of New York commented : 'It is noteworthy that this event marks Heming's third triumph abroad—first as an illustrator, next as an author and now as a painter.'—The Connoisseur.

"His beautiful drawings awaken keen interest, especially in those who love to be near to nature."—Paris Edition, New York Herald.

"An artist whose personal knowledge of Canadian wild life is unsurpassed."—Illustrated London News.

"Arthur Heming is one of a mere half-dozen Canadians who have had the wit to comprehend the unique literary material offered by life of our woods—human and animal, Indians, trappers, lumberman, bears, moose, fur-traders, pines, snow-shoes, and all that is distinctive in that native scene."—William Arthur Deacon.

"His ability as a plastic surgeon, and his complete knowledge of the subject, has brought him many honours and international fame. Operating as he does every year, in European countries where his name is equally well known, attests to his professional ability and activities."—Med. Herald.

Of his book on Plastic Surgery it is said: "Each chapter is of interest to the general surgeon; the teaching is modern and sound, the contents being set forth in a clear and easily comprehensible manner. There is much to be learnt in the sections allotted to wounds, grafts, congenital and traumatic conditions of the head and cervical regions. The chapter on cleft-palate and hare-lip will be of interest to all surgeons. The book deals with every congenital and traumatic defect; it epitomizes the bibliography since 1919, and is the richer by the addition of the author's original ideas and methods. The illustrations, diagrammatic and photographic, are superb; none of them could be spared. The book is well-produced and most emphatically worthy of study."—Journal of Roy. Med. Soc.

"Other important volumes on the subject have been published in America and in France but we feel justified in saying that in comprehensiveness and attention to detail, this book is in advance of its forerunners."—Journal of the Brit. Med. Assn.

"Johnston's appreciation of the wealth and beauty of the Canadian scene, whether in the pastoral fields of Quebec or in the rock-ribbed northern wilderness, has always been lively and keen. While he has been true to the dourness as well as to the elegance of nature in Canada, always in his pictures has appeared some touch of romantic color, or some grace of contrast, direct from a heart surcharged with poetic feeling."—J. E. Middleton.

"Certainly no artist in Canada has equalled his mastery of tempera used impressionistically in bold, quick passages of color."—T. Telegram.

"'Beyond the Law', I think, is magnificent—the most thoroughly Canadian picture I have seen."—Sir E. Wyly Grier.

"Mr. Johnston is master of bright color and sunshine contrasted with cool luminous depths of shade. His effects are strong and vigorous. In all his pictures the artist shows his complete command of his means of expression, his sympathetic feeling for nature in her more vigorous phases and the variety and freshness of his treatment."—A. A. Stoughton, New York, Prof. Architecture.

"Considered Canada's outstanding stage star."—Maclean's Mag.

"As a solo actor in comedy she ranks with Ruth Draper. As the headliner of a big show, spangled with stars, she has no equal on any stage. Her greatest art has always been in revue. She is at her best on a crowded stage. The great secrets of her success are her mastery of ridiculous comedy, her vivid, inimitable personality, rivalling Anna Held, Raquel Meller and Fritz Scheff, and her subtle talent for musical comedy. When Noel Coward acted in his own "Year of Grace" revue it was not Coward, but Lillie, that the crowd went to see."—T. Star.

"Surely in no other line of activity has Toronto produced an individual with the mastery of the field Miss Lillie has established on stage, screen or radio."—T. Telegram.
